LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23, 2014 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- International AERO Products, AERO, is proud to announce the unveiling of the AERO Edition C7 Corvette created by ABBES Design and built by MRT Engineered Performance at the 2014 SEMA Show in Las Vegas, Nevada. The AERO Edition C7 Corvette body kit created by ABBES Design enhances the original design and esthetic of the vehicle giving it a luxurious, global charm. The vehicle also showcases racing suspension and brake upgrades. AERO's brand ambassador, Jo Coddington, consulted in the designing of the wheels. which showcase the AERO logo.

Following the unveiling at the 2014 SEMA Show, AERO will continue to customize the vehilce at their upholstery facility in Bellflower, California. AERO's President and CEO, Jonathan Saltman, has designed an exquisite interpretation of the existing interior design, while adding AERO's classic, minimalist approach. The interior will be constructed with some of the finest leathers in the world, and will be handcrafted with the same AERO precision and detail shown in their custom, multi-million dollar aircraft interiors.

Before the AERO Edition C7 Corvette leaves AERO Headquarters, the exterior will be protected from the elements with AERO SHIELD, 2-Part Paint Protectant. The silicone-free, co-polymer protectant will leave the vehicle's paint with a luscious shine and leave the vehicle's paint protected for up to two years.

The AERO Edition C7 Corvette is a Limited Edition vehicle. However, separate parts will be available to purchase in the United States from MRT Direct. MRT Direct is also an official retailer of International AERO Products.

To find out more information about the AERO Edition C7 Corvette, visit the International AERO Products booth at the SEMA Show, #20767, in the Central Hall. Show goers should also stay connected with AERO on Facebook and Twitter for the vehicle's location during the show.
